

Project –Based Learning Reflection

An effective combination of academics and CTE can address the common goal of preparing high school students to work and learn as “career aspirations combined with rigorous and relevant coursework have a significant positive relationship on student achievement, in that higher expectations lead to higher educational and occupational attainment”.

(Akos, Lambie, Milsom, & Gilbert, 2007)

1. What does this quote mean to you?

2. Why is it important to have high expectations of our students?