Introduction

This manual is designed as a resource tool for correcting errors generated when data is loaded at either the state or FBI level. Some errors involve multiple data elements and there can be several reasons that can cause specific errors to be identified. In some cases, correcting the error condition may involve adjusting data relationships and/or data elements not specifically mentioned within the error explanation. It is not practical to attempt to show every possible cause for each error. This manual will describe the end effect of the error condition detected by the computer.

The manual will identify both FBI and Tennessee errors. The FBI errors appear first and the Tennessee specific errors will follow in the respective listing for the segment to which they apply.

In some cases, errors will have multiple-cause possibilities. For example, if the Cleared Exceptionally field contains a value of N for Not Applicable but the Exceptional Clearance Date contains a date, what is the error? Was the wrong entry made in the Cleared Exceptionally field or was a date put in by mistake? In these cases, the explanation provided will describe the overall problem but the true cause of the error will have to be determined by analysis.

The error numbers are presented in numerical sequence.

100 – 199.....	Administrative Segment
200 – 299.....	Offense Segment
300 – 399.....	Property Segment
400 – 499.....	Victim Segment
500 – 599.....	Offender Segment
600 – 699.....	Arrestee Segment
700 – 799.....	Group B Arrestee Segment
800 – 899.....	Officer Involved Shooting Segment

The exceptions are errors found in FBI control programs and structure checks. These type of errors will be in the numeric range of 001 – 089 and indicate exceptional conditions such as missing segments, duplicate segments, etc.

Warning messages are assigned n40 – n49 (n = 0 – 8, corresponding to the segment level) and will not cause a rejection of the incident.

The valid codes for each data element can be found in the NIBRS Version 1: Technical Specification, the TIBRS Data Collection Manual, and the TIBRS File Specification Layout documents.

The remainder of this document contains error numbers and messages and is arranged in numerical order.

Note: Some transaction types and errors associated with them in the FBI errors do not apply to Tennessee agencies. The TBI does not accept the transactions of M – Modify or W – Windows. The data is converted to a Window transaction type when necessary before the file is sent to the FBI.
