Murfreesboro Attorney Appointed to the Tennessee Commission on Children and Youth

The Tennessee Commission on Children and Youth welcomes Christy C. Sigler, a new member appointed by Governor Bill Haslam representing the Mid-Cumberland region.

Sigler, a native Knoxvillean, practices law in Murfreesboro, specializing in representing juveniles and families in juvenile court. She is a graduate of the University of Mississippi and the University of Memphis Cecil C. Humphreys School of Law, where her accomplishments included receiving the Dean's Distinguished Service Award and writing for the Tennessee Journal of Practice and Procedure.

Prior to attending law school, Sigler served in the U.S. Army as a Signals Intelligence analyst, earning two Army Commendation Medals, three Army Achievement Medals and a Good Conduct Medal.

The Tennessee Commission on Children and Youth is an independent state agency created by the Tennessee General Assembly. Its primary mission is to advocate for improvements in the quality of life for Tennessee children and families.
