INTRODUCTION

This finding aid covers the gubernatorial papers of Tennessee Governor Benton McMillin (1845-1933), who served consecutive, two-year terms as governor, from 1899-1903. It consists of seventy-seven manuscript boxes of materials that consist of correspondence, special subject files, proclamations, resolutions, miscellaneous materials, bills, election materials, reports, position applications, requests for requisitions, and petitions for pardons.

There are no restrictions on the use of the materials and researchers may make copies of individual items for individual or scholarly use.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This finding aid covers the gubernatorial papers of Tennessee Governor Benton McMillin, who served from 1899-1903. The collection consists of seventy-seven manuscript boxes of materials arranged by record type as follows: correspondence, special subject files, proclamations, resolutions, miscellaneous materials, bills, election materials, reports, position applications, request for requisitions, and petitions for pardons. The bulk of the collection consists of Petitions for Pardons (26 boxes, numbers 53-77); Correspondence (21 boxes, numbers 1-22); and Applications/Petitions (17 boxes, numbers 33-49).

McMillin's tenure as governor was characterized by his efforts to balance Tennessee's financial situation, improve public education, and reform child labor. McMillin was successful in reducing the state debt by creating a sinking fund, and he presided over strict management of the treasury. He signed legislation establishing uniform textbooks for public schools, provided for factory inspection, and changed the minimum factory employment age from 12 to 14 years.

However, because the collection is arranged by record type, it is not certain whether information on these issues can be found within the papers. Researchers looking for information on these issues might look in the Correspondence (boxes 1-22), in the Special Files (box 23), and in the Reports (boxes 29-32).

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Benton McMillin

(Democrat)

Benton McMillin, the son of John and Elizabeth Black McMillin, was born in Monroe County, Kentucky, on September 11, 1845. He was educated at Philomath Academy in Tennessee, and at the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical College (later the University of Kentucky at Lexington).

Sometime after the end of the Civil War, McMillin read law under Judge E. L. Gardenshire in Carthage (Smith County), Tennessee. Before moving to Carthage, he set up his law practice in Celina (Clay County), Tennessee. He was admitted to the Tennessee bar in 1871. His political career began in 1874 when he was elected to the Tennessee House of Representatives where he served until 1877. He was elected to the U. S. House of Representatives in 1878 and served continuously until 1899.

After failing to be elected to the U. S. Senate in 1897, McMillin quit congress to run for governor of Tennessee. During his two, two-year terms as governor, McMillin improved Tennessee's financial situation, improved public education, and reformed child labor. When his second term as governor ended, he entered the insurance business in Nashville.

McMillin never held elective office after 1903, although he ran for a Senate seat in 1910 and 1930, and again for governor in 1912 and 1922. President Wilson appointed McMillin as Minister to Peru 1913, where he served until 1919, when he was transferred to Guatemala where he served until 1922.

McMillin wed his first wife Birdie Brown (the daughter of Tennessee Governor John C. Brown) in 1869, and they had one son. Birdie died several years later and in 1887 McMillin married Lucille Foster, and they had a daughter. McMillin died in Nashville on January 8, 1933, and is interred in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.
