BOARD OF LICENSED PROFESSIONAL COUNSELORS

Licensee: Benjamin J. Vos, LPC, Nashville **
Violation: Guilty of engaging in an inappropriate emotional and physical relationship with patient; Violating the rules and regulation adopted by the board; to wit: 0450-01.13 PROFESSIONAL ETHICS All licensees and certificate holders shall comply with the current code of ethics adopted by the American Counseling Association, except to the extent that it conflicts with the laws of the state of Tennessee or the rules of the Board. If the code of ethics conflicts with the state law or rules, the state law or rules govern the matter. Violation of the code of ethics or state law or rules may subject a licensee or certificate holder to disciplinary action; (1) The certified professional counselor and licensed professional counselor and anyone under his supervision shall conduct their professional practice in conformity with the legal, ethical and professional standards promulgated by the Board under its current statutes and rules and regulations. (2) Each applicant and certificate holder or licensee is responsible for being familiar with and following this code of ethics; Guilty of violating the 2014 American Counseling Association Code of Ethics principles: A.5. Prohibited Non-counseling Roles and Relationships (a) Sexual and/or Romantic Relationships Prohibited: Sexual and/or romantic counselor-client interactions or relationships with current clients, their romantic partners, or their family members are prohibited. This prohibition applies to both in-person and electronic interactions or relationships. (b) Previous Sexual and/or Romantic Relationships: Counselors are prohibited from engaging in counseling relationships with persons with whom they have had a previous sexual and/or romantic relationship. A.6. Managing and Maintaining Boundaries and Professional Relationships (b) Extending Counseling Boundaries: Counselors consider the risks and benefits of extending current counseling relationships beyond conventional parameters. Examples include attending a client's formal ceremony (e.g., a wedding/commitment ceremony or graduation), purchasing a service or product provided by a client (excepting unrestricted bartering), and visiting a client's ill family member in the hospital. In extending these boundaries, counselors take appropriate professional precautions such as informed consent, consultation, supervision, and documentation to ensure that judgment is not impaired and no harm occurs. (c) Documenting Boundary Extensions: If counselors extend boundaries as described in A.6.a and A.6.b., they must officially document, prior to the interactions (when feasible), the rationale for such an interaction, the potential benefit, and anticipated consequences for the client or former client and other individuals significantly involved with the client or former client. When unintentional harm occurs to the client or former client, or to an individual significantly involved with the client or former client, the counselor must show evidence of an attempt to remedy such harm. (e) Nonprofessional Interactions or Relationships (Other Than Sexual or Romantic Interactions or Relationships): Counselors avoid entering into nonprofessional relationships with former clients, their romantic partners, or their family members when the interaction is potentially harmful to the client. This applies to both in-person and electronic interactions or relationships. A.11. Termination and Referral (a) Competence Within Termination and Referral: If counselors lack the competence to be of professional assistance to clients, they avoid entering or continuing counseling relationship. Counselors are knowledgeable about culturally and clinically appropriate referral resources and suggest these alternatives. If clients decline the suggested referrals, counselors discontinue the relationship. (c) Appropriate Termination: Counselors terminate a counseling relationship when it becomes reasonably apparent that the client no longer needs assistance, is not likely to benefit, or is being harmed by continued counseling. Counselors may terminate counseling when in jeopardy of harm by the client or by another person with whom the client has a relationship, or when clients do not pay fees as agreed upon. Counselors provide pre-termination counseling and recommend other service providers when necessary. C.1. Knowledge of and Compliance With Standards: Counselors have a responsibility to read, understand, and follow the ACA Code of Ethics and adhere to applicable laws and regulations.
