Consumer Tools for Selecting a Contractor

START WITH RESEARCH

UTILIZE OUR CONSUMER TOOLS

The Tennessee Department of Commerce & Insurance (TDCI) is dedicated to helping Tennessee consumers make smart decisions. The Board for Licensing Contractors, a section of TDCI's Regulatory Boards, works to assure fair practices exist in all phases of the construction industry.

Before signing a contract to authorize any construction or repairs, consumers should first educate themselves and verify the credentials of their contractors:

- Visit verify.tn.gov to ensure that a contractor is properly licensed to work in Tennessee.
- Check the complaint and disciplinary history of a contractor by contacting the Contractor's Board by phone at (615) 741-8307 or by email at contractors.home-improvement@tn.gov. Closed complaints with disciplinary action can be found on our website at www.tn.gov/commerce.

10 TIPS TO CONSIDER WHEN SELECTING A CONTRACTOR

Only hire licensed contractors. Use TDCI's online Verify tool to easily check licensure.

Ask the contractor who will be performing the work: contractor, his/her employee(s) or a subcontractor.

Get several bids. It's best to get at least three bids and check references.

Get a written contract that includes the company's name, address, and telephone number. The contract should also include an anticipated start and completion date.

Never pay more than one-third down and do not let the payments get ahead of the work.

Do not pay with cash.

Never sign over your insurance check.

Make sure the contractor is insured to cover workers' compensation, damage and general liability insurance.

Check with your local government for codes, permits, inspections and business licenses. Make sure the contractor obtains a permit for code inspections.

Check the contractor's record with the Better Business Bureau in your area by visiting www.bbb.org.

REPORT VIOLATIONS

WATCH FOR RED FLAGS

When hiring a contractor, avoid:

- A person going door-to-door selling their services.
- A person who offers services for a short time only, which makes consumers feel rushed and unable to research the contractor.
- Unmarked trucks or vans, or a refusal or reluctance to set out complete and specific contract terms in writing.
- Being pressured to pay for more than half of the cost up front.

FILE A COMPLAINT

Even after conducting research, you may experience problems with the contractor that you selected. Consumers are encouraged to file complaints with TDCI when they feel they have been the victim of an unfair or deceptive business practice, witness unlicensed activity or see suspected misconduct or other violations of respective law or rules.

Should you have problems when working with a contractor in Tennessee, don't be embarrassed to report them to us.

Professional con-artists know how to manipulate and take advantage of people. You can take control by filing a complaint and reporting them before others are harmed.

To file a complaint about a contractor with the Tennessee Board for Licensing Contractors, visit the TDCI Regulatory Boards online at www.tn.gov/commerce or call (615) 741-8307.
