Shianne Newell

Office of Training and Professional Development
- Foster Parent Trainer

I became a trainer because I wanted to be in a position where I could mentor and educate parents on what it looks like to parent a child from the child welfare system.

I want to teach foster parents because there is so much information that many parents do not know about, and in this role I prepare parents to be in a better position to where they feel confident about caring for a child from the child welfare system.

Working amongst individuals who continually motivate and inspire make all the difference. I make a positive impact with my work by knowing that we are helping to prepare parents to provide loving and stable environments for our children in care.

“Anyone who does anything to help a child in his life is a hero.”

- Mr. Fred Rogers
