Welcome the Tennessee Therapeutic Foster Care Self-Assessment Tool!

The goal of this provider self-assessment is to validate areas of strength and to become mindful of areas that will require improvement for the benefit of foster youth, their families and their foster parents.

There are seven Essential Domains of the TN-TFC Program Model. Each domain has it's own webpage. Simply follow the flow of the webpage by:

1) Reading the Component definition;

2) Reading and commenting on each Consideration Point in the textboxes;

3) and giving your agency a self-assessment rating when you see the 5 point likert scale rating

At the bottom of each Essential Domain page, there is a green section where you can make note of any potential action steps that your agency may want to take for that Essential Domain.

After completing all the Domain pages, there will be a page that automatically calculates and lists the self-assessment mean rating for each Domain. If a mean rating is not listed, that means that there is a Component that still needs to be rated. Domain mean ratings will only calculate after all components have been rated.

Next, there will be a page that lists all the potential action steps that you made note of earlier to help your agency determine which actions steps that your agency will pursue. Use the checkboxes on that page to indicate which Domains your agency will take action steps on and note in the textbox, what specific action steps you all plan to take.

You will notice that there is a “Save & Return Later” button at the bottom of each page. If you need to save your work and return later, click that button and be sure to write down your return code (or copy, paste, and save your return code in a MS Word document).

If you have any questions or concerns about how to complete the TN-TFC-SAT, please contact julie.rotella@tn.gov for support.

Thank you for participating in the Tennessee Therapeutic Foster Care Self-Assessment!

The program utilizes developmental history of the child and family to identify both risk and protective factors that affect permanency outcomes and to address the presenting problem(s) that brought the youth into care.

The program has a continuum of well-being promoting stabilization of safety risks to return a child home; once home, the program promotes the family's level of functioning in order to sustain protective factors for the child.

The program promotes the idea that what brought youth into care is what should get them out of care. There is emphasis to return children home by addressing any remaining issues that impact stability and/or family empowerment.

Outcome measures:

- Monthly Provider Summary; CANS; evidence through documentation (ie thorough psycho-social); family history considerations; psychosocial incorporating a comprehensive family history; utilization of lifestory and/or lifebook work

TN TFC Domain: Holistic Family Approach

Component 2: The program emphasizes a mentoring relationship between foster parent and birth family so that the child can be their whole self resulting in increased integration for the child. From our family to yours - foster parents being that bridge between care and youth returning to their family.
The program utilizes assessments to triage the situation and determine clinical recommendations regarding safety risks for the child.

The program ensures the PATH curriculum is reinforced and applied; the program promotes wellness for all in their training curriculums.

The program emphasizes the key functions of foster parents to support the whole child including: engaging in dialogue, developing and strengthening relationship with bio parent to include face to face meetings, focus on well-being of child and family - modeling this interaction, recognizing impact of trauma to the whole family system as opposed to the individual child or youth.

The program encourages a change of perspective for foster parents to endorse a "wellness awareness" beyond in the moment behaviors of a youth.

The program’s foster parent application process seeks foster families that embrace or are willing to embrace the TN-TFC expectations / concepts.

Outcome measures:

Face to face meetings between foster parent and bio parent; Documentation; Delivery of Training; Application Process and re-evaluation process
