What tasks were performed at this job site?

John was asked to help organize racks

How long did the individual work at the job site assessment?

120 Minutes

What, if any, barriers, physical or cognitive, affected the individual's ability to perform the job tasks for the duration of the assessment?

John depended on some verbal prompting to identify which items needed organized.

What is the level of intervention needed by a job coach for this individual to perform these job tasks?

A job coach would need to keep John on task and ensure that he completes the task. Verbal prompting to make sure that he places the items in the appropriate place would be necessary but as he gets familiar with the placement of things, the assistance can be minimal.

What natural supports are available that would result in a greater level of independence in this work environment?

None at this time.

What job tasks did the individual like?

John showed excitement and seemed very happy to be at this location. He said that he enjoyed what he was doing and would like to work there.

What job tasks did the individual dislike?

John did not express any dislikes.

Challenging Behaviors

Are there any behavior issues that would affect job performance and integration into this work environment, etc.? Yes

If so, what are the behaviors?

John does not understand that he is to give people their personal space. He tends to stand too close to people and put his face in front of their view. He did this with the manager when she was showing him the task. He also tends to hug people when it is inappropriate.

Mobility

Will the individual need any special training or assistance in getting to the work site and/or around in the work area, etc.?

Yes

If yes, what special training or assistance is needed?

John needs to be transported to and from the job site.

Comments

John performed the task very well. He showed interest in what he was doing and was very friendly. He required assistance to identify what items needed rearranging, but was able to match and hang them appropriately. John demonstrated good matching skills and very good fine motor skills. He improved his attention span and assisted the manager for almost 1 hour with other things she was doing. Hastings is one of John favorite places to go and he would benefit from working there because he would remain interested for longer periods of time and maybe enjoy work more if he was with familiar people that he liked and in a place that he enjoys spending time at. We will be looking into possible employment at Hastings.
