

2015–16 District Reading Programs

“Setting the Foundation: A Report on Elementary Grades Reading in Tennessee” provides insight into the challenges associated with early grades reading in Tennessee, along with a set of recommendations for building more readers across the state. This appendix provides detailed information about reading programs in Tennessee districts.

The Appendix contains four tables:

TABLE
1

Reading Blocks and Reading Specialists. Table 1 displays whether a district has a: a) dedicated reading blocks (e.g., designated time each day for reading instruction), b) pacing guides or scope and sequences for reading block (e.g., timeline or schedule with plans on what to cover over the course of a year), c) district-wide early grades basal reader/textbooks, and d) district-wide sets of supplemental curriculum materials (e.g., guided or balanced reading materials, phonics programs, etc.). In addition, Table 1 also provides the e) total minutes per day for literacy block in Kindergarten, first, second, and third grades and f) the number of reading specialists in the 2014–15 school year. Items a through e about district early reading practices were provided via survey responses to the TDOE’s District Landscape Survey, which was administered to all districts in December 2015. Item f was gathered from the Personnel Information Reporting System (PIRS).

2

Universal Screeners and Progress Monitoring Tools. Table 2 lists the universal screeners and progress monitoring tools reported by districts on the District Landscape Survey.

3

Reading Program Funding Sources. Table 3 lists sources of funding for reading programs reported by districts on the District Landscape Survey.

4

Textbooks for Grades K–3. Table 4 lists textbooks and their costs used by districts in grades K–3. Textbook information is based on district reports of reading textbook sales from 2013 to 2015 for grades K–3. Publisher information is listed in parentheses.
