How to determine price for one dekatherm of natural gas:

The monthly price for one dekatherm of natural gas is determined by adding the contracted pipeline markup price to the NYMEX monthly settlement price. The NYMEX monthly settlement price is determined by using the settlement price of the month the natural gas was delivered. For example, let's say that a user ordered 2,000 dekatherms of natural gas that delivered in January 2023. To get the total price for this order, one would take the January 2023 settlement price of $4.709 and add it to the markup price of $0.71 for a total of $5.419 per dekatherm. Then one would multiply $5.419 by 2,000 for a total of $10,838 for 2,000 dekatherms of natural gas.

Reach out to the contract administrator if you need the NYMEX monthly settlement price.
