Introduction

Determining appropriate child care market rate subsidy payments is a complex, state-specific process. The goals and structure of state child care subsidy programs are quite different from state to state. The Boyd Center for Business and Economic Research at the University of Tennessee has worked closely with the Tennessee Department of Human Services to determine the most appropriate Tennessee-specific structure for estimating child care market rates. The following discussion outlines the specific process by which the market rates were determined.

Methodology

In an effort to provide adequate subsidy payments to Tennessee child care providers relative to their costs, a Market Rate Survey is conducted annually to guide the determination of maximum payment reimbursement rates for subsidized child care in the state. Contracts for providers caring for children who qualify for child care payment assistance through the child care certificate program allow payment of the maximum subsidy rate regardless of the private-paying rate.

Rate Conversions

The Market Rate data are gathered from an annual reporting required of all licensed child care agencies in the state of Tennessee. Rate data for licensed child care providers across the state are collected and reported for three provider categories—Child Care Centers, Group Homes, and Family Homes—and are further categorized by age of child (infant through school-age), unit (e.g. before/after school) and frequency of payment.

Beginning with data prepared for last year's report, child care agencies had more options to describe their prices. Child care agencies are able to indicate rate seasonality or relation to a school calendar (e.g. summer or "school out" rates), enrollment intensity (e.g. extended hours, drop-in services), and a wider range of payment frequencies (e.g. hourly) than in the past. Every effort was made to include rate data that could be reasonably converted to a standard weekly rate. For example, (converted) daily, weekly and full-time summer rates were included in the analysis for all age groups, because they help describe the full-time child care market consumers face. On the other hand, hourly rates (and others, described further under "Special Rate Categories" below) were excluded because, when converted, they could overstate the typical weekly cost of care.

Since child care agencies may report multiple fee structures for a given age category, all applicable rates are first converted to one single, standard weekly rate using the following conversion: weekly and full-time rates are used as reported; monthly rates are divided by 4.33; and daily rates are multiplied by 5. For instance, a $433 monthly rate is divided by 4.33 to yield a $100 weekly rate. Likewise, a reported daily rate of $20 is multiplied by 5 to get a weekly rate of $100. Where an agency reported more than one rate structure within a single age category (i.e. weekly, monthly, and daily), an average weekly rate is computed from the calculated standard weekly rates. Where agencies described a fee with both a unit of care and a frequency (e.g. full-time monthly), the rate was converted based on the reported fee frequency. A small sample of providers, such as five or less in a specified region, may fail to accurately reflect the population of service providers in a given care category. Finally, to minimize the effects of state subsidies on the calculations of these market rates, only data for those agencies whose subsidies comprise no more than 50 percent of enrollments are used in this analysis. To exclude part-time rates reported in error, facilities reporting fees under $40.00 per week for Infant through 5 Years Olds are excluded in determining the average cost of care or percentile rankings of rates. Likewise, weekly fees for Before and After School care of less than $30.00 per week are excluded. Any converted weekly rate larger than $750 regardless of source is excluded, to avoid the influence of outliers.

Special Rate Categories

School-Age care presents some unique problems. Child care agencies report fees of care for school-aged children in several sub-categories: Before School care only; After School care only; Before and After School care; School Weekly; School Full-Time; School Monthly; and School Daily. From these, two categories of School-Age care were determined, School-Age Out and School-Age In. The School-Age Out category represents rates charged for children who are in Kindergarten through 17 years of age when school is not in session and care is provided all day. An average weekly rate was computed for School-Age Out using the School Full-Time, School Weekly, and School Monthly divided by 4.33 rates. The School-Age In category represents rates charged for children in Kindergarten through 17 years of age when school is in session and care is not provided for a full day. The School-Age In weekly rate was determined by averaging the School Before and After, School After, School Daily times 5, and 5-Year Before and After rates.

Aside from offering part-time rates (84 percent of child care agencies), and 14 agencies which are self-described drop-in child care centers, flexible care arrangements were rarely reported. Around 7 percent reported half-day rates, just over 5 percent reported nighttime or extended-time rates, and just over 2 percent report non-traditional hours or weekend rates.

Rate Calculations

An average market rate and ranked percentiles are calculated for the following age categories: Infant, Toddler, 2 Years Old and Over, and School Age. Beginning with the 2016 report, average rates by category are also calculated for the ten most populous Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) in Tennessee. The US Census Bureau defines an MSA as an urban area with a population of 50,000 or more and adjacent territory with a high level of social and economic integration.¹ The average rate is a simple average of all the weekly rates within an age group and category. All rates within an age bracket and category are also ranked from highest to lowest. Once the rates are ranked, the 50th, 60th, 70th and 75th percentiles for each age bracket and provider category are calculated and reported. A percentile is the percent of the distribution of ranked rates that are equal to or below a given rate. To illustrate, the 70th percentile is the point in the ranked set of rates where 70 percent of the reported rates are the same or lower, and 30 percent of the reported rates are higher. Percentiles are reported for two groups of counties, as well as the state as a whole.

First Market Counties are those with either one of the top-20 highest 2023 populations or one of the top-20 highest average per capita personal incomes from 2021 to 2023.² Use of population and personal income rankings allows selection based on measures that are likely correlated with the conditions in each market for child care services, and also separates the selection criteria from the Department of Human Services' influence on the market rates. These criteria yielded 26 counties to include Anderson, Blount, Bradley, Cheatham, Davidson, Dickson, Fayette, Greene, Hamilton, Henry, Knox, Loudon, Madison, Maury, Montgomery, Putnam, Robertson, Rutherford, Sevier, Shelby, Sullivan, Sumner, Washington, Williamson, and Wilson counties. The Second Market contains all other 69 Tennessee counties.³

Beginning with 2017 data, county-level median fees by age bracket and facility type are also reported.

Results

Summary tables are attached. Table 1 includes summary data for the 25-highest ranking Tennessee counties as defined above. The remaining 70 counties were aggregated and results are presented in Table 2. Table 3 contains summary data for all 95 Tennessee counties. As shown in the tables, calculations were made at the 50th, 60th, 70th, and 75th percentiles for the two sets of counties, as well as for the state. The average weekly rate charged by providers in the survey and the number of providers in each age group are also shown for each provider type. Additionally, tables 4 through 13 report average rates by care type and age for the ten most populous metropolitan statistical areas in Tennessee. Tables 14 through 16 report the median fee by care type and age for each county, where applicable. The summary tables can be used in establishing appropriate policy regarding child care subsidy reimbursement rates for each county.

³ Based upon its creation of 50 or more child care slots (majority for infant/toddler care ages 0-3) in a county that is not already in the top tier for reimbursement rates, an employer may petition that a county be moved into the top tier.

Note: Child care agencies reporting under $40 per week for full-time care and $30 per week for School Age In were excluded from the analysis. Median fees are reported for each county with locations that offer care in a given age bracket and meet minimum fee requirements for analysis. In general, weekly infant care is most expensive, followed by the toddler, two to five year-old, and school-age out of school and in school rates. This trend may not hold in counties with a small number of child care agencies in the analysis.
