Murfreesboro resident becomes IT Specialist

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. – Pfc. Jared Redito, a Stewarts Creek High School alumna, graduated from the U.S. Army’s Basic Combat Training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, and Advanced Individual Training at Fort Gordon, Georgia, as an Information Technology specialist on June 25.

During the nine weeks of Basic Combat Training, Redito learned basic Soldier skills such as squad maneuvers, physical fitness, land navigation, military tactics, and etiquette. Upon completion, he trained as an IT specialist for eight months, learning how to maintain, process, and troubleshoot military computer systems and operations.

“Overall, it was an experience that I was grateful to have,” said Redito. “I can now call myself a member of the best military in the world.”

Redito graduated from Stewarts Creek High School in 2021.
