

Healthcare Products List

Sales and Use Tax

Revised December 2015

Effective January 1, 2008, Tennessee adopted new definitions for healthcare products that are in compliance with the Streamlined Agreement. The new definitions are: drug, over-the-counter drug, grooming and hygiene product, durable medical equipment, mobility enhancing equipment, and prosthetic device. This alphabetic listing provides information to clarify the placement of healthcare products within the new healthcare definitions. The placement of the healthcare products included on the list is in compliance with the Streamlined Agreement. This list is not all inclusive and is intended to provide guidance with regard to the placement of other healthcare products that are not listed. Information has been added to clarify the taxability and provide information regarding the conditions for tax exemption such as prescription, for home use and single patient use. Non-profit entities that have qualified for exemption under Tenn. Code Ann. § 67-6-322 may continue to make tax-exempt purchases. See Important Notices: 07-18 Prescription Drugs, 07-22 Medical Equipment, 15-07 Exemption for Diabetic Testing Supplies, and 15-26 Blood Glucose Meter, Diabetic Supplies and Nebulizers. Tenn.Code Ann. §§ 67-6- 314 and 67-6-320.

Gastric Bands	Gastric bands are used to correct morbid obesity in patients that are generally unable to regulate their caloric intake. They are prescription-only implanted devices that are placed around the top portion of the stomach via a minimally invasive "keyhole" or laparoscopic surgical procedure. The placement of the band creates a small pouch at the top of the stomach that holds a volume of approximately 50 milliliters. The pouch fills quickly with food and also slows the passage of partially digested food from the top to the bottom of the stomach. As the upper part of the stomach believes it is "full" or satiated, the message to the brain is that the stomach is full and this sensation of satiation helps the person to eat smaller portions, eat less and therefore lose weight over time. Pressure reduction therapy beds	Pressure Reduction Therapy is used primarily in the treatment of pressure ulcerations, severe burns, skin grafts and open wounds resulting from massive trauma. These beds provide redistribution of the patient's weight and reduction in surface interface pressures, thereby maintaining proper blood flow. The beds included in this group are comprised of a series of cushions that are fed by a manifold that is attached to a blower or motor that pushes air through the cushions. This treatment also helps to prevent the development of additional pressure ulcerations and helps to provide wound infection control. Patients suffering from long-term immobility suffer from increased pressure between the skin and the support surface on which they are placed. This pressure causes the compression of the patient's tissues between the support surface and the patient's bone resulting in the reduction of blood flow to the affected areas. After a period of time, generally a matter of minutes, toxins and chemical wastes produced by the body's tissues along with oxygen deprivation result in the necrosis or death of the affected tissues. Seprafilm	Seprafilm is a unique bioresorbable membrane that serves as a barrier to separate opposing tissue within the body. The use of Seprafilm significantly reduces the incidence, severity, and extent of post-surgical adhesions which are a natural consequence of surgery and lead to serious postoperative complications. Seprafilm is inserted prior to closure of the wound to prevent the adhesion of two surfaces of tissue. Post-surgical adhesions can occur after both open and laproscopic surgery. They result from the normal process of tissue repair and form when tissue surfaces that are usually separated become united. The complications resulting from adhesion vary depending on the type of surgery involved, and can include bowel obstruction, infertility, and difficulty in reoperative procedures. Due to the serious nature of the complications, it is an important objective to reduce the occurrence of adhesion.	Prosthetic device	Exempt	No prescription required.
