						The content of the special course, International Relations, does not closely align with the Government & Public Administration program of study. The program manager for Business Management & Administration and I collaborated to determine if there was another program of study or courses we could suggest combining to create a more aligned path from level 1 to level 4. We could not identify a suitable program of study or group of courses. Also, the labor market data did not support employment in international relations. My recommendation would be to first, ensure the labor market in the Shelby County region could provide jobs in international relations, and second, create a special program of study with three or four special courses that create a seamless pathway to postsecondary or

Pre-Calculus and Trigonometry Unified	Sullivan County Schools	Deny				Trigonometry and Pre-Calculus standards and skills were determined to be redundant and eliminated with the adoption of the TN Diploma Project graduation requirements and have been a unified course since about 2009. Two options designed in the current coursework that may serve your need without a special course could be the Bridge Math Course (a full math credit) following Algebra 2 to focus on these topics either concurrent to or prior to taking Pre-Calculus. Or, using the extending time option (an elective math credit) for Algebra 2 to "double-dose" and cover topics in more depth. These options can work with either a traditional or block schedule. Since all Special Courses are for elective credit only, students may be better served with the Bridge Math Course which is a math credit bearing course designed to prepare students for college
