Youth Transitions Advisory Council Reports on Year's Successes

The TCCY-based Youth Transitions Advisory Council released its eighth annual report since being created by the Legislature to support former foster youth in becoming productive citizens. The report celebrates Tennessee’s progress as a leader in assisting all foster youth, including youth with severe emotional disturbance, substance abuse disorders, and developmental and intellectual delays, successfully transition to adulthood and independence. All child-serving agencies were required to assist in the program at its creation, and other stakeholders make up the current membership.
The report includes recommendations, new and continuing, on changes to improve supports for transitioning youth.

Legislation passed in 2016, credited in the report as a step forward, while not addressing youth who have aged out of care, should assist youth as they move to independent living. The "Reasonable and Prudent Parenting Standard" now in effect allows foster parents to make the decision to include foster youth in school, family and community activities that reasonable parents would make for their children. This should improve the development of social skills and independent living.

The report recognizes the emphasis of the Tennessee Housing and Development Agency (THDA) on serving foster youth because of their high risk of homelessness. The Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services (DMHSAS) also provides programs for youth dealing with serious emotional disturbance or substance abuse.

Mental Health Initiatives Helping Tennessee Youth

The Tennessee Healthy Transitions Initiative is a partnership of groups, including youth-led groups, working to assist Tennesseans ages 16 to 25 to improve their health and wellness if they are at risk of developing a serious mental health condition or co-occurring disorder. Efforts include increasing public awareness and outreach and providing effective and engaging services and supports.

The Tennessee Infant and Early Childhood Mental Health Initiative began as a grassroots organization in 2010 and has now formally developed into AIMHiTN. Membership is made up of individuals who are interested in infant and early childhood mental health and developing mental health services specifically for the birth to age 3 population. Interested people are encouraged to attend.

The Tennessee First Episode Psychosis Initiative serves adolescents and young adults between the ages of 15 and 30 who are experiencing psychotic symptoms such as hallucinations, unusual thoughts or beliefs, or disorganized thinking, with symptoms present for more than a week but less than 24 months. In the spring of 2016, Congress increased the set aside in the State Mental Health Block Grant program from five to 10 percent for first episode programs. Carey Counseling provides the services in the Northwest Region. Funding has been provided to Mental Health Cooperative, Inc. to establish services in Davidson County and to Alliance Heathcare Services for Shelby County.

During the last legislative session, a $1.25 million dollar appropriation for the Building Strong Brains: Tennessee’s ACEs Initiative was recommended by the Governor and approved by the General Assembly in the FY 2017 budget. TCCY received funding to create a statewide training for trainers. Trainings for TCCY staff and state agency partners have been completed using a format developed by TCCY staff. Trainings for community members planning to share information about Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) will be held across the state.

Information about ACEs Innovation Grants funded under the appropriation was distributed, and grant proposals were reviewed and scored by teams of state employees, including TCCY staff members Kennedy, Hargrow, Rust, Keller, Leavell-Rice, Paling and Taylor. Final selection of the recipients of the funds was made largely by the ACEs Coordinating Team, on which TCCY Executive Director Linda O’Neal serves. Proposals from the 72 submitted by agencies across the state, including AIMHiTN, were funded. Factors considered included innovation, system change and transformation of policy, programs, practice or philosophy.

TCCY staff members were honored for a total of 205 years of service to the state and its children at a recent Commission meeting. Three staff members, Executive Director Linda O’Neal, regional coordinator Gwendolyn Wright and policy advocate Steve Petty, have each been employed by the state for 35 years, with Petty having begun as a college student. Others honored included Vicki Taylor (20 years); Dana Cobb, Richard Kennedy and Kristi Paling (15 years); Rosalyn Leavell-Rice, Nancy Townsend and Craig Hargrow (10 years); and John Rust (5 years).

Updates

Stanton City Mayor Allan Sterbinsky was appointed by Gov. Haslam to serve on the Commission. Dr. Allan Sterbinsky, mayor of Stanton in Haywood County, has been appointed to the Commission. As mayor, he has led the city to receive grant funding for new housing for low-income residents and to reduce flooding in town. He planted The Stanton Orchard and Walking Trail where citizens can pick fruit for free. Stanton also subsidizes The Stanton Clinic, where low-income residents from surrounding counties can receive quality healthcare at low cost.

Before becoming mayor, Dr. Sterbinsky taught and conducted research at Vanderbilt University and The University of Memphis and Jackson-Madison County Schools. He is currently an on-call researcher for Johns Hopkins University. He has presented research findings across the United States and in Europe. His work was cited by Secretary of State Madeline Albright to set policy for the United States.

Congratulations to TCCY staff members Bill Latimer and Sujit Das, who both recently became grandparents. Best wishes to them and to the proud parents.
