Tennessee Marks September as Suicide Prevention Month

CALM: Counseling on Access to Lethal Means is a 1.5 to 2-hour workshop to train mental health service providers on strategies to help clients at risk for suicide and their families reduce access to lethal means, including firearms, being offered by Tennessee Suicide Prevention Network (TSPN). Contact TSPN for more information on scheduling a training.

TSPN provides information, advocacy and resources for the state's efforts to prevent and respond to death by suicide and is planning events to commemorate September as Suicide Prevention Month. TSPN is available to schedule training opportunities in the community.

Discussion this month may include celebration of the progress of efforts to prevent suicide deaths at the Natchez Trace Bridge. A call box has been added giving people the ability to provide people the opportunity to talk to responders before making any decision. Planning will begin to determine how to add barriers to the National Park Service facility.

National Recovery Month

For 30 years, during the month of September, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) has educated the nation on mental health and substance use treatment and mental health services. These efforts have made it possible for millions of Americans to live healthy and rewarding lives. More information about substance abuse and recovery is available from... the Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services (TDMHSAS). The department's Peer Recovery Services, Certified Peer Recovery Specialist, Certified Family Support Specialists and Certified Young Adult Peer Support Specialists call upon the expertise of people in recovery to help others.

Department of Human Services Continues 2Gen Efforts

The Tennessee Department of Human Services (DHS) has released its 2Gen Annual Report: Building a Thriving Tennessee Through 2Gen. The department has integrated a Two-Generation Approach (2Gen) to focus on the family rather than focusing on just children or just adults. The method being used was developed by Ascend at the Aspen Institute. Its goal is to move children and their parents toward educational success and economic security by aligning all programs with the 2Gen approach.

DHS is currently involved in implementing the approach, developing universal outcomes and determining best practices that can be expanded statewide.

FrameWorks Institute has recently created a report, Framing Two-Generation Approaches to Supporting Families: Guidance from the FrameWorks Institute, on how to explain the two-generation approach.

Funding Information

The Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services has announced Suicide Prevention Grants. New funds were added to the state budget beginning this fiscal year for youth and young adult suicide prevention and mental health awareness programs. The programs selected were Tennessee Voices for Children, Centerstone and the Mental Health Association of East Tennessee. Programs funded included training and outreach programs.

Memphis Plough Foundation to Close in Four Years. The Memphis-based Plough Foundation has made the decision to spend down its assets in the next four years. The Nonprofit Quarterly points out that this strategy means the foundation's spending decisions face heightened pressure to leave a legacy of successful programs.
