Q1: Will the scope of services include in-plant inspection services during the fabrication of materials?

A1: The in-plant monitoring of fabrication of materials is typically carried out by TDOT M&T personnel. Because there are almost always beams under fabrication for TDOT at the various plants, TDOT effectively keeps someone “camped-out” at those facilities. So, the direct answer to the question would be no, those services would not be required for in-plant fabrication. However, plant monitoring for production of materials such as concrete and asphalt are required as part of the scope of this contract.
