Workforce Development Updates:

Administrator Susan Cowden provided an update on information pertaining to the major accomplishments in 2010 as well as the major national changes in Washington. She stated the goals for the division of Workforce Development for 2011 and thanked Areas 13 and 10 for reallocation of budget funds to continue programming. She discussed the changes from the General Accounting Office (GAO) and their report for the Fiscal Year 2009. Finally, she provided members information on how the GAO report has effects and implementation across Tennessee, its 47 programs, and various departments across the entire state.
The National Perspective on Workforce Development:

President and CEO of the Center for Workforce Learning, Mary Ann Lawrence provided information of the national perspective on workforce development and how Tennessee can plan to respond to potential budget cuts and other changes. In the overview she discussed the new landscape of those who are served and their needs, what the expectations for Workforce Development was in the early stages as well as where Workforce Development stands now. She offered several solutions for Tennessee to consider if the state experiences major budget cuts. These solutions included use of more technology, encourage creative answers to the growing customers’ needs, State Board to create a “balanced scorecard”, have focused customer service, pay attention to return on investment, and better partner alignment among local and state services. In conclusion, she stated that the State of Tennessee is proactive and with diligent focus on the aforementioned areas greater success can be reached.

Families First:

Paul Lefkowitz presented on Families First, Tennessee’s time limited, work-focused, cash assistance program for low-income families with children, a federally funded program that operations out of the Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) Block Grant. He provided an overview of the case and program demographics state-wide as well as in the three grand districts of the state. This program has proven very successful, however, with the onset and now recovery from the recession, Mr. Lefkowitz stated that they are finding an increasing number of cases reaching their lifetime maximum of assistance. He stated that there are multiple barriers that make it difficult for a recipient of these funds to receive and maintain employment along with burdensome TANF reporting requirements and several states facing reduction in funding. The opportunities that this program presents are more creative thinking to create funding flexibility as well as potential subsidized employment programs from ARRA.

Keep My TN Home Hardest Hit Fund Program for Tennessee:

As a result of the high level of interest in December’s meeting, Laura Sinclair, Senior Director of the Tennessee Housing Development Agency, returned to present an overview and update of the program Keep My TN Home Hardest Hit Fund. She discussed the Background, Program Eligibility, Program Benefits, Delivery System, Marketing, Outreach and Current Status of the program. To date, over 1,230 applications had been processed with nearly 60% of those meeting the program’s eligibility, 600 of which are in Shelby County. Of those applications that met the eligibility requirements, 44 files are in the underwriting process with 5 already been approved. The first closing for this program occurred on March 4, 2011 with 2 additional closing in Middle Tennessee and Memphis. She state the first pay first payment was a reinstatement payment made in early March for a family in Knoxville. Ted Feldman, Executive Director of Tennessee Housing and Ted Klindeny, Director of Operations joined Laura for her presentation.
