2010 Census: Homeless Population

August 2012

Bill Haslam, Governor

TENNESSEE

Department of Labor and Workforce Development

In the 2010 Census, emergency and transitional shelters for people experiencing homelessness were defined as places where the homeless can stay overnight. Some examples include missions; hotels and motels used for shelters; shelters for children who are runaways, neglected, or homeless; and similar types of temporary shelters. These include first-come, first-serve shelters where the people must leave in the morning; shelters where people have a bed at night for a specific time period; and shelters that provide for homeless during extreme weather conditions.

The emergency and transitional shelter population makes up one segment of the population enumerated at service-based locations and should not be misconstrued as a count of the entire population experiencing homelessness. There were 209,325 people who were enumerated in the 2010 Census in these facilities. There are 8 million people who live in group quarters in the United States. Group quarter persons are not included in this article. It is also important to recognize that there is no standard or agreed upon definition of what constitutes homelessness.

Some Characteristics

In the homeless group that was counted in transitional shelters some trends were apparent. There were more males (62.1 percent) than females. The largest age group was the 18 to 64 age group (77.2 percent) followed by the under 18 age group (20.2 percent). There were 5,457 people over 65 years old (2.6 percent). The median age of the population in emergency and transitional shelters is 39.2 years old. The median age for females is 29.7 years old. Most of the people identified themselves as either White alone (94,000 people) or Black alone (85,000 people).

Regions, States, and Cities

The northeast states accounted for nearly one-third of those in emergency and transitional shelters. These states also had the largest share of the younger population. The Midwest had the smallest number of persons in shelters. The South had the largest number of males and the largest number of persons over 18 years old.

Over one-half of all the homeless in emergency and transitional shelters were concentrated in seven states. They are New York (17 percent), California (13 percent), Florida (6 percent), Texas (5 percent), Pennsylvania (4 percent), Illinois (4 percent), and Washington (3 percent). Hawaii had the largest percentage under 18 years old (37 percent) while New Mexico had the largest percentage over 18 years old (90 percent). Nevada had the largest percentage of males (74 percent) while New York had the largest percentage of females (48 percent).

Cities with a population greater than 100,000, with the highest population of homeless in emergency and transitional shelters are New York (29,562 people), Los Angeles (6,069 people), Chicago (3,915 people), Philadelphia (3,750 people), Boston (2,952 people), and Atlanta (2,577 people).

NONFARM EMPLOYMENT & LABOR FORCE NARRATIVE

Total nonfarm employment increased by 30,000 jobs from August 2011 to August 2012. This includes seasonal increases in health care/social assistance (up 7,400 jobs), which includes increases of 2,900 jobs in ambulatory health care services and 2,500 jobs in nursing/residential care facilities; mining/logging/construction (up 6,500 jobs); transportation equipment manufacturing (up 6,200 jobs); local government educational services (up 5,200 jobs); accommodation/food services (up 4,900 jobs), which includes an increase of 3,900 jobs in food services/drinking places; state government (up 2,500 jobs); professional/business services (up 2,400 jobs), which includes an increase of 2,000 jobs in administrative/support/waste management; retail trade (up 2,100 jobs), which includes an increase of 1,300 jobs in motor vehicle/parts dealers; and fabricated metal products (up 1,400 jobs).

These increases were partially offset by declines in wholesale trade (down 4,300 jobs), which includes decreases of 2,800 jobs in merchant wholesalers durable goods and 1,700 jobs in merchant wholesalers nondurable goods; financial activities (down 2,800 jobs), which includes a decline of 2,400 jobs in finance/insurance; arts/entertainment/recreation (down 1,900 jobs); general merchandise stores and professional/scientific/technical services (both down 1,300 jobs); and educational services (down 1,200 jobs).

During August nonfarm employment increased by 18,600 jobs. This included seasonal increases in local government educational services (up 15,300 jobs); professional/business services (up 5,900 jobs), which includes an increase of 5,000 jobs in administrative/support/waste management; mining/logging/construction (up 2,300 jobs); food services/drinking places (up 1,100 jobs); and transportation/warehousing (up 1,000 jobs). This was partially offset by decreases in arts/entertainment/recreation (down 2,000 jobs); other services (down 1,500 jobs); retail trade (down 1,300 jobs), which includes a decline of 1,000 jobs in general merchandise stores; and wholesale trade (down 1,000 jobs).

Tennessee's seasonally adjusted estimated unemployment rate for August 2012 was 8.5 percent, up 0.1 percentage point from the revised July 2012 rate.

The United States unemployment rate was 8.1 percent in August 2012. In August 2011, the national unemployment rate was 9.1 percent, and the state rate was 9.2 percent.

Across Tennessee, the unemployment rate decreased in 90 counties, increased in two counties, and remained the same in three counties. There were 34 counties with an unemployment rate 10 percent or more. In August 2012, the lowest rate occurred in Lincoln County at 5.7 percent, down 0.1 percentage point from the previous month. The highest rate was Scott County's 17.5 percent, down from 21.7 percent in July 2012.

The data from all the nonfarm employment estimates tables include all full- and part-time nonfarm wage and salary employees who worked during or received pay for any part of the pay period that includes the 12th of the month. This is a count of jobs by place of work. Agricultural workers, proprietors, self-employed persons, workers in private households, and unpaid family workers are excluded. These numbers may not add due to rounding. Data are based on the 2011 benchmark.
