

Dear IEA Account Holder,

The Individualized Education Account (IEA) Program is hosting a virtual training for account holders whose students are nearing the age of majority (age 18). At 18, students gain control of their IEA unless a valid Power of Attorney (POA) or conservatorship is in place. Taylor Jenkins and Sarah Ridgway from the Office of General Counsel will discuss POAs and conservatorships, legal tools allowing parents to make educational decisions for students over 18, especially those with disabilities. This presentation will cover forming valid POAs and conservatorships, their impact on educational rights, and the advantages and disadvantages of each option.

Please plan on joining us for this informative session. A question-and-answer session with the team will follow the presentation.
